description

Modular and flexible, Forum adapts to the most challenging spaces. Whether used in a linear wall application, wall intersections or in random islands, Forum prevails with solutions to suit your environment.

linear

For narrow applications, linear stations present options where space is limited. Added work surfaces and privacy are accommodated with returns and panels to close off station ends.

description

Organically charged components free Forum from conventional practices and allows you to explore and chart out your own creative spaces without boundaries or limitations. Measured and precise details create useful and friendly adaptations for wiring, storage and other tech related interactions.

curved

Designed for open plan spaces, Forum Corner Stations may be used as standalone centres or combined with linear offerings to create variations in between.
